

Abstract

The invention relates to a method of autoclave sterilizing a closed, squeezable pharmaceutical packages wherein the package includes a tube and a cap and wherein the cap is constructed of a material with a modulus of elasticity different from that of the tube.